

Petrana Radulovic

Education

- University of Florida (3.79 GPA) 2013-2017: B.A. in English, B.S. in Computer Science
 - Recipient of the Dean's Medal for Excellence in Liberal Arts and Sciences

Experience

- Editorial Fellow: Web Culture for Mashable (January 2018 – present)
 - Contributes daily content to site, ranging from news beats to in-depth pieces
 - Monitors viral trends to find timely stories to pitch and create content
- Opinions Editor for the Independent Florida Alligator (January 2017-April 2017; columnist Fall 2016 and 2017)
 - Managed team of 15 columnists, line-edited and scheduled three daily columns
 - Wrote daily editorial, covering topics ranging from current events to campus news, philosophical musings to pop culture analyses
- Freelance Web-Designer and Editor for LiMeS (Learning management system) (Summer 2016)
 - Created layouts in HTML to client's specifications for 30 lectures and 15 labs
 - Edited and proofread content on the site to communicate educational and statistical concepts
 - In the process of writing documentation for site, covering navigation and functionality
- Independent Editor for "Dating Mining for Statistics" (Summer 2014)
 - Edited a textbook published by Kendall Hunt Publishing and used at Florida Atlantic University
 - In addition to grammar and proofreading, edited statistical errors

Projects

- UX Design: Clickbooth Mobile Site (Fall 2017)
 - Semester-long project for UX-Design class
 - Worked with team of students to redesign the mobile site layout for CPA network, Clickbooth
 - Responsible for documenting the process, including user personas, scenarios, and focus group questions, as well as the final report documenting the entire design process
- Software Engineering: Women Working with Women Web Application (Spring 2016)
 - Semester-long project for software engineering class
 - Worked with team of other students to create fully functioning web application using MEAN stack
 - Responsible for UX and front-end specifications

Skills

- Working knowledge of HTML, CSS, C++, Java, Fortran, C#, and Javascript
- Basic knowledge of Ruby, Python, and C
- Proficient with Microsoft Office (Excel, Word, PowerPoint)
- Editing experience in both technical and non-technical fields
- Experience working and communicating with a team under deadlines
- Experience handling multiple projects at a time